ASIATICS HATE EUROPEANS. The Asiatic detests the European, in the first place because of wounded caste feeling; because, that is, of a hatred like that of the French proletariet for the French noblesse. The European never plunges among Asiatics without claiming an insufferable superiority. He always asserts that he is the wiser, that he has the right to guide, that his ideas. and his only, have any merit or validity. No matter what the issue, religion or civilization or art or method of govornment, he affirms that he is right, and not those among whom he comes, and this with a calm, persistent assurance which has all the offect of the most contemptuous in solence. It is, in fact, followed by acts, for the European always claims the first pace, always holds that he is the officer and the Asiatic the private; always if he cap, rules, and if he carnot be himself as one whose clearest rights are unjustly denied. The European subject holds himself the equal, in some sense the superior, of the Asiatic king. That is natural, say his comrades, but the assertion, even when it is true, does not make the claim the pleasanter. The Asiatic sees that he has a civilization of his own, a philosophy of his own, a social life of his own, and that the European despises all without completely understanding any. The democratic temper, so to speak, is roused against he aristocrat, and after years, sometimes centuries, of endurance, engen-lers a hatred which can be scothed only by blood and even when blood has been shed is not entirely soothed away. We all think the hatred most unjust, and t often is so, as it is always most unwise out it is not unnatural. If a foreign nce superior to ourselves came among s with the same pretensions, the same difference to our thoughts and our eelings and our ways, the same claim o all posts of direction and all other dyantages conferred by caste we should radually hate them, too .- [Spectator.

THE CASTELLANE DINNER OUTDONE. All the commissioners sent by the United States to the Paris Exposition have given lavish entertainments, but the one given by William L. Elkins, of Philadelphia, on Wednesday last, at the Ritz Hotel, surpassed even the celeorated Castellane flower fete. The re-ception rooms, transformed into tropical and Arctic scenes, were intended to represent from the Equator to the North Pole. One room was filled with tropical plants, sago palms, ferns, date trees and masses of tropical verdue, through which glimmered colored electrie lights.

Another room, where the coffee was erved, after dinner, at small tables to the 44 guests, was arranged in imitation of the Arc ic regions, with masses of real ice, representing icebergs, around the walls, while tiny fountains splashed over them and among Norway evergreens. The ceiling was covered with lark blue canvas, through which climmered little stars of electric lights. The floor was covered with crystalized white canvas, which looked like hoar frost or frozen dew. The scene was like fairyland.

The guests were the ambassador, General Porter, and the United States commissioners and their wives. Mrs. Potter Palmer sat on the right of Mr. Elkins. The dinner was for Franklin Murphy, the New Jersey commissioner, who had just arrived with his daughter, Miss Murphy.

The menu comprised a rare collection of delicacies, including champagne of the vintage of 1790.

Mr. A Sanders, writing from Cocoanut Grove, Fla., says there has been quite an epidemic of diarrhoea there. QUESTION ANSWERED. Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grand mothers never thought of using anything else for Indigestion or Biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of Appendictis, Nervous Prostration or Heart failure, etc. They Prostration or Heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and had with headaches and other aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. For sale by Ernest L. Allen, Claud M.
